

Paul Wilson submission
Received 12 May 2024

Dear Sir/Madam

I ride motorcycles for both pleasure and commuting.

The thought of self-driving vehicles being permitted on Australian roads absolutely terrifies me.

It is bad enough that self-driving vehicles are less than reliable when it comes to detecting cyclists and motorcyclists, but the driver complacency encouraged by this so-called technology can only be described as egregious.

These things should be forever banned from Australian roads.

If I am ever struck by a self-driving vehicle, I will sue each of the manufacturer, the distributor and the owner for their net value plus ten dollars.

If I am killed by a self-driving vehicle, my family will take that same legal action.

Most sincerely
Paul Wilson

[REDACTED]

[REDACTED]

[REDACTED]

[REDACTED]

[REDACTED]